Books (2)

Wayne A. Leighton and Edward J. López, Madmen, Intellectuals and Academic Scribblers: The Economic Engine of Political Change, Stanford University Press, November 2012

Note: This book is an "academic-trade" crossover written for general audiences. It offers an intuitive history of political-economic ideas followed by a new framework for understanding political change as a tension between ideas vs. interests in shaping institutions.

Madmen has been reviewed in numerous blogs, popular outlets including Barron's and Forbes, and academic journals including Public Choice, Review of Austrian Economics, Independent Review, Journal of Entrepreneurship & Public Policy, and more.

Madmen has been the topic of academic panel discussions at Western Carolina University's Free Enterprise Speaker Series (November 2012), The Cato Institute (January 2013), The Public Choice Society annual meetings (March 2013), Association of Private Enterprise Education annual meetings (April 2013 and April 2014), and more. Book presentations have been made at dozens of events across the United States and internationally.

A Chinese translation of Madmen is under contract.

Edward J. López (editor), The Pursuit of Justice: Law and Economics of Legal Institutions, Foreword by Robert D. Tollison, New York: Palgrave Macmillan, 2010.

Note: This book is an edited volume of 11 original papers and editor's introduction that analyze key decision-makers in the legal system, including judges, prosecutors, forensics experts, and others. Institutional arrangements can improve the incentive structures of key decision-makers, improving justice. Also in e-book: http://www.palgraveconnect.com/pc/doifinder/10.1057/9780230109490

Pursuit has been reviewed in academic journals Public Choice (2011); Regulation (Winter 2010-2011, pp.46-49); and Laissez-Faire (2012).

Pursuit was the topic of a book panel before a paid live audience with Internet streaming. Co-panelists: Professor David D. Friedman (Santa Clara University) and Chief Judge Alex Kozinski (Ninth District Federal Court), Date: December 9, 2010, Oakland, CA

Journal Symposia, Edited with Introductions (4)
